

Nobel Laureates

Many Nobel laureates, scientists, and engineers have contributed toward the development of today's nuclear reactors and the field of science that surrounds them. Nobel laureates recognized for their contributions to nuclear science include:

- Henri Becquerel
- Neils Bohr
- James Chadwick
- Arthur Compton
- Pierre and Marie Curie
- Albert Einstein
- Enrico Fermi
- Ernest O. Lawrence
- Glenn T. Seaborg

Major universities and laboratories involved in the development of nuclear science were Columbia, Cornell, Chicago, and Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory.
